Providing Access to Your Government Documents

Missouri FDLP Annual Conference

June 6, 2013

(Revised June 7, 2013)

Felicity Dykas

MU Libraries

How important is it to provide access to your government publications?

“The Federal Depository Library Program was established by Congress to ensure that the American public has access to its Government’s information. GPO administers the FDLP on behalf of the participating libraries and the public. Information products from the Federal Government are disseminated to these nationwide libraries that, in turn, ensure the American public has free access to the materials, both in print and online.”

Regulations

<http://beta.fdlp.gov/requirements-guidance/legal-requirements>

Regulations related to Bibliographic Control

Bibliographic control of a depository collection impacts the development and accessibility of the collection. Sources of cataloging records may be efficiently managed and free of charge to the library.

<http://beta.fdlp.gov/requirements-guidance/guidance/11-bibliographic-control>

Regulations related to bibliographic control

- 11. Bibliographic access

Proper bibliographic control must be provided so that depository libraries can ensure that their Federal depository resources can be located, retrieved, and accessed in a timely manner.

- 12. Piece-Level Records

Depository libraries must maintain a piece-level record of tangible depository holdings so that individual depository receipts can be accounted for.

- 13. Cataloging Receipts

Libraries must catalog current tangible receipts or publications that meet the library's collection needs.

- 14. Time-sensitivity

Many documents are extremely time-sensitive. All shipments must be unpacked and organized for easy access by staff while waiting processing and cataloging.

Regulations related to processing depository shipments

- 14. Time-Sensitivity

Many documents are extremely time-sensitive. All shipments must be unpacked and organized for easy access by staff while awaiting processing and cataloging.

- 15. Marking Property

All tangible depository material must be marked in some manner as depository property, which is usually accomplished with a depository property stamp.

- 16. Date Identification

Library staff must be able to identify the shipping list date, date of receipt, or the date of processing of depository material for retention purposes.

- 17. Shipment Review & Claims

Depository boxes must be reviewed to ensure receipt of all selected materials and shipments. Claims for missing or damaged receipts must be made within the proper timeframe and by the prescribed methods.

- 18. Duplicates

If the library receives a duplicate copy of a publication, the duplicate may be discarded immediately or offered on a discard list to the regional depository library.

Catalogers can be partners in providing access

A quick look at a few Missouri depository libraries shows that government documents areas have websites about their collections (next slides).

Government Documents

Spiva Library is a selective depository for Federal publications for the Seventh Congressional District of Missouri. The mission of Government Documents staff is to provide quality reference service as well as free and easy access to government information in all forms, both to our own students, faculty and staff and to the constituents of the Seventh Congressional District of Missouri. All patrons are encouraged to seek help at the fourth floor help desk with any questions they may have concerning government documents.

U. S. Government Document Types - Federal and Missouri

Government documents span a wide range of types. From agency information and appropriations to census data, and Supreme Court decisions, government publications cover many topics. This list is arranged alphabetically by column. The second column indicates whether the information is federal or state level. The third column indicates the dates of column. The fourth column includes links to the documents, the MERLIN record or the database which contains them.

For more information on Federal Government documents, please see our guide to Federal Government Information

These documents are received through the Federal Depository Library Program. The MU Libraries have participated in the Federal Depository Library Program (FDLP) since 1862. Many Federal and Missouri state publications are integrated with our collections under standard (Library of Congress or Dewey Decimal) call numbers. However, some government publications are housed in a special section on the east side of Ellis Library's first floor. These documents are generally findable through MERLIN.

This icon indicates the resource is restricted to students, faculty, and staff at the University of Missouri.

Bibliographic control – Guidance from FDLP

<http://beta.fdlp.gov/requirements-guidance/guidance/11-bibliographic-control>

Table of contents

- Organizing and making depository material accessible
- Piece level accounting
- Catalog requirement
 - Sources of catalog records
 - Catalog record considerations
 - Bibliographic control of online depository resources
 - Discovery of online resources and (EL) item numbers
 - Ongoing maintenance of catalog records or a shelflist

Organizing and making depository material accessible

- Arrangement should conform to professionally accepted library standards and should facilitate the practical use of the collection.
- Arrange according to SuDoc classification or other classification systems.
- OK to integrate material into other collections.

Piece level accounting

- Means that each piece is accounted for and individually identifiable.
- Libraries can accomplish this through full cataloging, creation of a shelflist in paper or electronic format, or a combination of the two.
- If you identify missing information about the holdings, using ranges to account for serials is permissible (for example, "volume 1, numbers 3-7, 9-12"). Maintain serials to the piece level until you are ready to bind the items or replace them with another format; at that point a holdings statement may be substituted.
- A map series could be comprised of a basic shelflist record and marking the appropriate quadrangles of maps received on the index map.
- Marked shipping lists do not constitute a record of the library's depository holdings. GPO recommends that you do not use them for that purpose.

Catalog requirement

- All depository materials are deemed to be a valuable part of your library collection and worthy of cataloging. How you catalog FDLP tangible materials is an individual decision.
- The conventional option is to add MARC records to your only catalog.
- Choose your own cataloging level: full cataloging with item information or brief cataloging to record the series and a detailed shelflist.
- You are not required to retrospectively catalog older depository receipts.
- You are not required to catalog online only material, but are strongly encouraged to do so.

Sources of catalog records

- Catalog of U.S. Government Publications
- Documents Data Miner 2
- Cataloging Record Distribution Project (partnership with MARCIVE)
- Purchase bibliographic records from vendors
- [Also, OCLC WorldCat]

Catalog record considerations

Library staff members that develop the government information collection must be well informed about the following policy considerations:

- The nature of the catalog records being acquired
- The timeline of the cataloging process
- Decisions regarding which materials receive or do not receive cataloging treatment

How do you provide access to your government publications now?

From discussion:

- Most or all add records to online catalog
- Source of records:
 - MARCIVE (several)
 - Benefits include options to get shipping list records and barcodes and call number labels
 - Provide OCLC WorldCat records
 - Received changes, including changed URLs
 - OCLC WorldCat (some)
 - GPO cataloging ensures that records for most items are available
 - Document Data Miner (one or two)
 - Easy to use
 - No cost to get records
 - Records include OCLC number

- Materials are cataloged by GPO staff.
- The records are viewable in the Catalog of U.S. Government Publication.
- All records have a corresponding OCLC record number EXCEPT records from the GPO Historic Shelf List.
- Records are provided based on each library's selection profile by MARCIVE using File Transfer Protocol (FTP). Retrospective records (records prior to October 2011) are not available.
